

OWNER INFORMATION

The Finding Me Now centers are owned and operated by Indi-Kid, Inc an Indiana corporation that began caring for children in 1972. The company is lead by Michael R Bundy. His brief bio is below:

Michael R. Bundy graduated from Purdue University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Management. He worked for a Fortune 500 company and served as COO of a medical laboratory. He has served in leadership roles in community organizations, church and para-church organizations. Currently, in addition to serving as President of Indi-Kid, he provides leadership to the Christian Business Leaders Association and serves CBMC on state and national leadership teams. He is the author of Significance Now and The Possibilities for Christ-Led Enterprise. Michael has enjoyed a long marriage with his wife, Barbara - with three grown children and six grandchildren to show for their love for one another.

Importantly in 1980, Michael received Jesus as his Lord and Savior. This decision profoundly changed his approach to business and continues to guide his thinking. While the Finding Me Now centers do not offer religious instruction or are considered Christian businesses, it is Mike's sincere hope that the love of Christ is evident in his relationships, that the Bible informs his decisions and that his leadership is a blessing that brings glory to God.

